Dedication

In grateful appreciation of the untiring work of one who, during twenty-five years of service as a teacher at the Weymouth High School, has constantly aided the students with his kind assistance and helpful advice, we the Class of 1939, dedicate this Year Book to Mr. Prescott B. Brown, Faculty Adviser of the Reflector.

Class Poem

Against the bright horizon of life,
Where land and sky divide,
Stands a mighty golden gate
Which we must open wide.

Beyond those gleaming portals
Lies something more precious than gold—
Success, the reward of endeavor,
Which we must attain and hold.

Shall we tarry slowly behind,
And content ourselves to stay
On a path that offers no promise,
And where failure holds its sway?

No! Let us press onward and upward,
Until the gates swing open wide,
And, from the generous hand of time,
We find the treasure stored inside.

This Is Our Life

Salutatory Address

We, the Class of 1939, cordially welcome all who are present here on this our Graduation Day.

Mothers and fathers, it is with a deep sense of gratitude and affection that we greet you. We realize that it is your understanding guidance and your many sacrifices that make this happy day possible.

Mr. Pearson and members of the School Committee, we are proud of the Weymouth system of education, which has given us such excellent advantages and opportunities. May we extend to you our heart-felt appreciation.

Mr. Whittle and members of the faculty, we shall never forget the interest you have shown in our work during our four years at Weymouth High School.

The story of man's life is the story of his exceptional achievement. Step by step we have been able to unearth his life's narrative by the discovery of what he has done in the past. From the savage stage to the barbaric, from the barbaric stage to the dawn of civilization, from the dawn of civilization to the present time, we are able to unfold a story that far exceeds the greatest fairy tale ever written.

In the beginning, man's exploits were simple, just as his life was simple. To-day his feats are startling; but, startling as they have been, those which he will accomplish will be more so. This seems as certain as time itself, for history has repeatedly shown us that man's progress is never complete. It is like a winding river that moves toward the sea, sometimes placidly through the shady glens of peace and understanding, sometimes turbulently over the cascades of war and ignorance, but always progressing.

That man has advanced we surely must agree. Scientifically his progress has been phenomenal. As a result, his intellect has become keener and more alert to changes about him. But has his emotional development kept pace with his scientific development? The problem presented by this question must be acknowledged. Its answer is found in the story of his life.

Let us begin our story with Cro-Magnon man, who lived about the year 25,000 B.C. This man lived a life of comparative freedom. Without a government, he roamed the countryside, seeking his food supply. To obtain shelter from the wild beasts and the elements he used a cave. Here he raised his family; here he taught his children strict obedience; here he taught them the law of self-preservation, the law by which the Cro-Magnons lived.

In the succeeding years, as his fruit supply began to decrease and the number of people who were calling upon this natural supply continued to increase, he was faced with one of his first great problems—that of replenishing his food supply. He solved it by cutting a stone weapon to fit his hand. With this he killed small animals. What a field of opportunity he had opened to himself! Before long he attached a handle to the stone so that he could strike harder and kill larger animals. Man, guided by his intellect, had started to progress.

Cro-Magnon man's successor remained in this barbaric stage for thousands of years. He changed his place of abode from the cave to a shelter made of skins, and later to a wooden hut. He developed a simple govrnment in which the father of the family conducted the religious worship and made the laws for the household. One thing he kept with him, his lust to kill, but this lust did not confine itself to animals. Often, when he saw another man with something he desired, he killed to obtain it. One day he discovered fire, and with it the key to unlock the door to civilization.

The next chapter in man's story takes us to the banks of the Nile. Man had settled in Egypt because the land was fertile and food could be obtained without wandering. Here, amid scenes of peace and contentment, the Egyptian laid the foundation of future civilization. Three thousand years before the French engineer, DeLesseps, had completed the present Suez Canal, the Egyptians constructed the first Suez Canal. The Pyramids, the Sphinx, and the Hall of Karnak bear testimoney to his great architectural achievements. Writings, art, medicine, science, engineering, government, all these he developed and left to us.

But Egyptian civilization declined. First, it was the harsh treatment of the slaves and the degradation of the poorer class that caused unrest. Next, it was the invasion of the Shepherd Kings, to defeat whom the Egyptians developed men that were trained in the art of war. With these men at her disposal, Egypt became a conquering nation because the ruling class would not apply scientific intelligence to a moral code that would guide the destinies of the government in peace and contentment. In the sixth century B.C. Egypt fell into the hands of the Persians, and her progress stopped.

The next chapter of man's life is taken from the history of Rome. Rome's rise to power was largely the result of intelligence used in handling its citizens. She gave them a system of laws whereby they were treated justly. She recognized the need of a healthy people; so aqueducts were built to carry a pure water supply to Rome, games were instituted to develop the beaches, and public baths were introduced to insure cleanliness.

To all the advantages received from such an administration, man countered with greater works, splendid roads which are in evidence to-day, remarkable buildings, and unrivalled works of sculpture. With all this it seems that man should have been contented. However, greed seized the leaders of the country; and the army, which had been used to put down revolts, was used to expand Rome' power.

While such expansion brought with it an enriched civilization it had many evil results. Individuals grew more wealthy; class distinctions became prominent; wealth became the standard by which life's success was measured; the just administration of laws disappeared.

These injustices were reflected in Roman life. Heavy taxation, needed to support the growing army, drove out the middle class, and the added wealth weakened the character of the Romans in power. What was the result? Barbaric tendencies made their appearance. Gladiatorial contests were staged for their benefit. Christians were fed to the beasts, or forced to kill each other to satisfy their whims and fancies. Thus we see that man's moral and emotional development had not kept pace with his scientific progress, and, not withstanding its outward splendor, Rome was perishing from within. She fell before a barbarian invador A.D. 476.

Man and his world did not recover from the shock of the fall of Rome for centuries. During the Renaissance he began to patch together fragrants of his former greatness. Guilds began to flourish, and with them came social legislation. At the same time, however, Europe was torn by a series of wars. Under sane conditions cultural development and destruction would not have gone hand in hand.

The twentieth century has wrought a tremendous change in the world. Governments have changed; educational opportunities have been enlarged; medicine and surgery have gone ahead by leaps and bounds; and science has revolutionized man's-life. Yet all around us, in this age of advanced civilization, wars are being waged. It is the old story of ancient times—the survival of the fittest.

Will man continue to destroy man and to undo his great wroks? That is the problem which faces us to-day. The seriousness of the problem was stressed by Herbert Hoover in a recent speech when he said, "The tools of industry as well as warfare will destroy this civilization unless they be guided by men of high character."

What should be our answer to this twentieth century challenge? Let us answer it in the words of the same statesman:

"Out of this technology and power over nature we must build stability and security for the common man, or fail. We must stiffen those elements of character and wisdom that will make these forces beneficial and not destructive. It is in education, morals, and character of men where our hopes must rest."

This is the task which lies ahead of us; this is our life.

Concetta Geraldine Passero

Past, Present, and Future

Valedictory Address

Look down upon a busy street, and you will see a world in motion—people trucks, buses. In the distance, trains are speeding over the tracks and gliding into the station. Even now, an airplane whirrs across the sky.

You are looking at transportation, to-day stirring chapter in the history of the United States. For our history can be written in many ways—in politics, in art, in science—but equally as interesting, it can be written in the terms of travel and transportation.

Let us turn back the pages of American history, and learn how our ancestors passed from covered wagons to trailer trucks; from canoe to steamboat; from stagecoaches to automobiles; from blazed trails to modern highways—always going forward with the purpose of bettering mankind by speedier and more comfortable methods of transportation.

From earliest history, men have tended to wander. Quest for adventure has ever led them to travel. Desire for wealth has prompted them to seek means for marketing their goods. Eager longing for social contact demanded a more efficient means of transportation.

The first method of travel was "shoe-leather express", except that perhaps men had no shoes. Later, man learned to domesticate beasts of burden. The discovery of the wheel naturally was followed by the invention of wheeled vehicles—wagons, coaches, trains, automobiles. And so developed roads.

However, it was not until 1775 that any concerted attempt was made by the Government to build a road as such. For more than a century, American pioneers had been occupied with the task of surviving, and transportation was of no immediate concern. But the old Indian trails did provide a route for travellers on foot and on horseback. With the outbreak of the Revolution, however, the need for roads was painfully obvious. In 1775, there were only three roads north and east from New York, and only one leading west from Philadelphia. General Washington found this lack of adequate roads as great a handicap in the conduct of his war as the lack of material supplies.

At the time of Washington's inauguration, anyone really in a hurry went on horseback. But, with the advent of the nineteenth century came a new generation that lived in the present and looked ahead into the future. Its members were eager to move forward with the purpose of bettering their country. Thus, it was natural that they demanded internal improvements, especially good roads and turnpikes, under Government aid.

The result of this generation's demands for improvements in transportation facilities may be divided into three periods before the Civil War: turnpike and improved roads; canals and improved rivers; and railroads.

Seventeen hundred and ninety-two marked the completion of the famous Lancaster Turnpike, the first scientifically-built, hard-surfaced road in the United States.

Shortly after this, the Federal Government came to realize the need for more and better roads, and, as a result, the National Road (or, as it was more commonly known, the Cumberland Road) was begun in 1811 southwest from Cumberland, Maryland. In 1818, it had been completed to Wheeling, West Virginia, and, by 1852, it had reached Vandalia, Illinois. In addition to the excellence of its construction, the Cumberland Road was noteworthy because of the presence of bridges, replacing the old and inconvenient fords.

In 1807, Robert Fulton's construction of the first successful steamboat in the world was the supreme event in the history of water transportation. The steamboat was used chiefly on the rivers, and, consequently, it did not help transportation from east to west since all the great rivers of this continent flow from north to south. This need for east-to-west transportation led to an era of canal building. The first and probably the best-known canal of this period is the Erie Canal. This was completed in 1825 between Lake Erie and the Hudson River.

In 1869, the Union and Central Pacific Railroads were joined by a mahogany tie bound with silver, and the last spike, a gold one, was driven. That year (1869) was the beginning of a great era for the railroads. Notable among the advances sponsored by the railroads and making for more efficient coast-to-coast travel are the penetration of the Continental Divide by the now-famous Moffat Tunnel and the bridging of the Mississippi River.

The railroad was only a small factor in reducing the isolation of our western farmer. It remained for the automobile to make country living not only possible but desirable. But the coming of the automobile caused a demand for a satisfactory road system. As a result, the Federal Government in co-operation with state governments built from the Atlantic to the Pacific a great ribbon of white winding through eleven states—the 3,000 mile Lincoln Highway.

For many years, men had thought about flying. They could do the same things as fish and animals. Why not imitate birds? It remained for Orville and Wilbur Wright to succeed in flying in 1903. They remained in the air approximately one minute at a height of 872 feet. This achievement, however small and insignificant in comparison with modern aviation accomplishments, was the first step in the forward and upward stride in the purpose of conquering the air.

The greatest triumph of American engineering skill is the construction of the Panama Canal. For this, a task which the French tried and failed, will the names of Goethals and Gorgas be ever written in the pages of American history.

Thus, by gradual but forward development, transportation has come to be what it is. The prosperity of the human race has kept almost equal pace with transportation development, for, as Rudyard Kipling so tersely said "Transportation is civilization." Without transportation, a nation would die. The roads and railways are the arteries of a country, and the traffic that flows along them is the blood stream that gives it life.

Until today, transportation has been on one plane. It was in constant contact with the earth. We used to stand by a road or look down from an upper window to watch the traffic go by. Today, transportation has begun to take to the skies.

Let us peer ahead into the future. Look up. Workmen fly from job to job. Passenger rockets travel to other planets. A trip from the United States to Europe in a rocket takes only one hour. Look about you. You do not see any smoky railroad yards. Trains use electricity instead of coal. There are few large landing fields for airplanes in the city, for the autogiro is used for air travel within the country or from city to city. It is difficult to predict the future of ships; for, ever since primitive man hopped on a log and started the first water-transport vehicle, the ship has been the largest passenger-carrying unit in the world.

Within the span of a lifetime, man has seen isolation banished by transportation. The poor man can take his weary family out of the noisy city into the pure air and sunshine of the country. To the sick, far from help, the motor vehicle brings the doctor quickly.

We have come a long way in the progress of transportation. Yet, we are just beginning to learn. We have the whole future before us.

Mothers and fathers, no words can express our appreciation and gratitude for the opportunities you have given us. May we prove worthy of the sacrifices you have made so that with all our educational advantages we may enjoy a richer life.

Mr. Pearson and members of the School Committee, we thank you for the twelve years of opportunities which we have enjoyed under your able supervision.

Mr. Whittle and teachers, we are deeply grateful for your understanding, patience, and kindness. May we pass on to others the best that you have given us.

Classmates, as we learn our high school to-day for the greater school of life, let us ever keep in mind our inspiring motto. To-day, unusual conditions exist. There is an excess of material, an excess of money, and an excess of man-power. There is not enough work to do, and yet there is so much to be done. The frontiers opened by science will afford greater opportunities for employment and increase in cultural advantages. Every generation has serious problems. Our forefathers mastered theirs. Can we expect to do less? Certainly, when we look at the achievements of this country during the last one hundred and fifty years, with our hopes and courage high, let us go—forward with purpose

FIRST QUARTER

The game had begun, and great excitement had enveloped the Weymouth High School gridiron as, on September 9, a group of bewildered freshmen took their positions.

The football team was expected to have a banner year under their new coach, Mr. Harry Arlanson, and Captain Charles White.

The whistle blew. The ball soared down the held into the hands of the Freshman-Senior Party, which came up the field beautifully for an advance of fifteen yards. After running off a few plunges at the center of the line, the basketball quintet, under the leadership of Captain Paone, streaked around right-end for the following yardage gain: thirteen victories; four defeats.

A razzle dazzle in the form of an Amateur Show completed the march for a first down. During a time-out, the teachers on the sidelines amused the team with "What Every Woman Knows." The Tatterman Marionettes followed suit and gave us "Jason and the Golden Fleece."

Play was resumed, and with the advice of the Athletic Council, a fast moving play called the Athletic-Dance brought us over the fifty-yard line. A completed pass in the form of the Operetta, "Who Discovered America," carried us a few yards nearer the goal. The captain called for another time-out, and we watched the girls do a fine job in their Gym Exhibition. The baseball team aided measurably in the next play with their record of nine wins against three defeats. Meanwhile, some of the veteran players, the seniors, had warmed up on the sidelines, and after being sent into the game, they pulled an unexpected reverse called "Big Hearted Herbert" as their final play of the year. The freshmen, sure of themselves by now, co-operated with the rest in a power play, just before the whistle blew for the end of the first quarter.

Referees: Gladys Dwyer, Gloria Poinsett
Linesman: Antha Phillips

SECOND QUARTER

After the brief rest period between the quarters, during which our weary team regained its "pep" and prepared to go on anew, the whistle blew, and again the game commenced. The ball was put into play by the Varsity Football team with Co-Captains Pirie and DiLorenzo leading the attack. Their record of nine victories, no defeats, won them the Class B State Championship.

At this point we employed a spinner play, the Glee Club taking the ball through a "Musical Revue" and then passing it to the Student Council, which completed the play to the tune of a Victory Dance.

Captained by Bob Pirie, the basketball team fought through a sixteen-game schedule, to win twelve of the total. At this point, a group of fervid fans broke through the side-line ropes and started a few maneuvers of their own. After all the excitement had subsided, we found that it was a group of pedagogic fans who were introducing a play that they called "Three Wise Fools."

The whistle again blew, and the team gathered in a group around the water boy; whereupon a well dressed gentleman came forward, and, capturing the attention of the entire crowd, began to tell about "Eskimo Land." Oh, how we wished that we were there! Football uniforms certainly are hot.

After this gentleman had finished, another was introduced. He told us the story of liquid air. For a while our entire attention was centered here, but suddenly he departed, and we returned quickly to the spirit of the game!

For a short time, our team lacked its usual team work and clever playing. Seeing this, our opponents put in a second team of midgets, who called themselves "The Tatterman Marionettes." These gentlemen proceeded to show us a new play an unexpected forward pass called "The Taming of the Shrew." This roused our anger, for we did not believe that we were shrews, and we were not so easily tamed. Therefore, we started to work, and pulled a smart reverse play, in which the track team registered a South Shore Interscholastic Championship for Captain Austin.

At this point in the quarter the cheering section had its attention taken from the game by a group of people who were shouting, in unison, something which must be important. From our positions on the field, we could not hear it all, but we did make out the words "Sun Up." It was the work of some of our older schoolmates.

Captain John Stella ran on the field with the baseball team, which completed its season with six victories and five defeats.

The second quarter came to a very silent and inactive close. The only disturbance was the hum of conversation in the grandstand. We marched triumphantly off the gridiron, glad to obtain a rest, but firmly resolve to go back into the game in the coming half with a renewed determination to fight and win!

Referees: Ellen Coyle, Marie Garofalo
Linesman: Mary Rockwood

THIRD QUARTER

As the whistle blew for the kick-off at the beginning of the third quarter, Co-Captains Botterud and Lukis led their noble force into the game. They completed a successful season with the very impressive record of six wins, two defeats, and one tie.

During a time-out the Weymouth Athletic Council furnished a banquet on December 9 in honor of the letter-man of the various sports. The senior lettermen of the football team received their sweaters at this time.

The squad thundered into action again as play 17, the Junior Party, netted a substantial gain. The Athletic Council Dance on January 14, was responsible for another advance toward the goal. Excellent passing and team work by the basketball team, under the able leadership of Captain Bill McCarthy, proved the basis for the coveted invitation to the Tech Tourney.

A snappy Teachers Play, "Craig's Wife," on February 16, followed by the operetta, "Trial by Jury," and a Revue, on May 20 and 21, accounted for a first down.

A recovered fumble by Captain Lloyd Smith and his baseball players brought the ball deep into our foe's territory. The team finished the season with six wins and four defeats.

In a second time-out music was provided by the Glee Club and the Weymouth High School Band under Mr. Calderwood's direction.

As the minutes ticked away, the seniors pulled a play called "Spring Dance" on June 17, which showed that training and experience are important.

Just as the blast from the official's whistle ended the quarter, play 33, commonly called the outing at Provincetown, was responsible for leaving many of the players rather pale around the gills. Nothing so serious, however, that a rest period between quarters wouldn't heal.

It was in this action-filled period that Paul Roche, Captain; Preston Barry, Quarterback; Ralph Hunter, Fullback; Marguerite Starkey, Left Halfback; Lenna Palmer, Right Halfback, received the whole-hearted support of their fellow students.

Referee: Robert Jorgensen, George Ronan
Linesman: George Wooten

FOURTH QUARTER

As the team entered the field for the last quarter, the younger enthusiasts, the freshmen, out en masse, to meet them. The result was the Freshman-Senior Party. Shortly after, Dr. Barker gathered the team and gave a heart-to-heart talk an "How to Make a Success of Yourself."

Then the whistle blew and the final quarter was on. Through the able direction of Captain Joe Crehan, the masculine leaders of the team led us through a successful football season with five wins, two defeats, and two ties. We were very fortunate this year to have a new football song and an Alma Mater Song, both composed by Mr. John Ghiorse and Mr. Norman Loud.

Once more on the offensive, the team opened up with an old play, but a very popular one, the Athletic Ball, which turned out to be a huge success. This gain was followed by a time-out during which the Chevrolet Motor Company presented moving pictures on "Safety."

When the time-out was over, the next play was made by a member from each home room who put an end-around play, commonly known as the Senior Christmas Party.

Next the basketball and wrestling teams took over the ball. The wrestling season was very successful and the team put on a grand play which made us swell with pride when they won the Tufts Tournament. The basketball team, although not quite so successful, was one of which we might be proud.

At this point the teachers took a hand in the game, pushing the ball forward for another first down with the play known as "George and Margaret." The glee club also made excellent yardage with a new formation which they called "The Chimes of Normandy." With the ball deep in the enemy's territory, the coach,

Mr. Whittle, called another time out in order to permit the players to rest during a lecture on "The Old West."

Then the jitter bugs of the team seized the ball and threw it for a completed forward pass, the Senior Prom. Now another group, wanting publicity, put on a startling performance called "You Can't Take It With You."

Next came the well earned victory for the members of the class of 1939. With his graduation, each one had helped to make a touchdown possibe, and the ball was at last safely over, in the arms of the class marshal, Robert Jorgensen.

A time out was called before the try for the point, during which we were refreshed by the banquet and reception.

The line-up for the point after—a trip to Provincetown—was quickly made and the point easily scored. This proved to be the most exciting part of the entire game, for shortly afterward the whistle blew, ending all further united activity and sending each player on with the feeling victorious.

1939 CLASS HISTORY

WEYMOUTH VOCATIONAL SCHOOL
Coach: Mr. Whipple
Captain: Leo O'Hare
Halfback: Russell Bean
Fullback: Walter Marsh

FIRST HALF

Receiving the opening kick-off, we broke into a snappy offensive, and on the first play, the Freshman-Senior party, marched four yards down the field, taking advantage of the surprise attack we had started. We broke into play seven, the printers' trip, and again we gained four yards. At this point, our offence bogged down and we were forced to kick.

After holding our opponents to no gain in two tries, they kicked to us, and we started off again. After our first play had failed, a substitute came on the field and after the next play, informed us to try an end around play in the form of a trip to the Worcester Trade School, which was unusually successful, gaining nine yards and a first down.

As our opponents' defence was smashed, we lined up quickly and threw a short pass over the line, which put us in an ideal spot to try our play 43, our first annual exhibition, which carried us all the way to the two yard line.

At this point some of the juniors came in and lined up for a trip to Provincetown, but before they could get under way, the referee's whistle blew, announcing the close of the first half.

THIRD QUARTER

Opening the second half, we started a scoring thrust with our exhibition at the Brockton Fair. We gained five yards in this particular play, and our hopes were running high, but we were jolted out of our giddiness by a fumble on our next play— examination week.

After regaining possession of the ball, we started out again, using play number 43, the printer' trip, which, though not quite so successful as the last time, was good enough to gain eleven yards. Trying desperately to get into our opponent's territory, our quarter-back called for a double reverse in the form of the addition of a sheet metal course.

The play had been fast and tiring, and, as substitutions were made, we were surprised to notice that during the game, two new Assistant Coaches, Mr. Mahn and Mr. Clarke, had reported to Head Coach, Mr. Whipple.

Our opponents now opened up their famed bag of tricks and being sorely pressed, our quarterback called time out. In the huddle, it was decided that the only way to stop the enemy's advance was to use the new defensive formation, the placement bureau, which had been taught to us by Assistant Coach, Mr. Duncan.

On th next play our opponents fumbled and we recovered possession of the ball.

Breaking into an unbalanced formation, we tried a long, down field pass, and carrying out our assignments perfectly in our second annual open house and exhibition, we completed it to the fifty yard line. At this time the whistle blew, ending the third quarter.

FOURTH QUARTER

After the rest period between quarters, we saw that the third new assistant coach, Mr. Booth, who was also to coach our basketball team, had reported to Head Coach, Mr. Whipple, for duty.

Falling back on our standard plays again, we used the Freshman-Senior Party to gain one yard.

Because our running attack wasn't gaining very much, we decided to resort to passes to produce a score. The first pass was thrown by the Senior Class, it being the Senior Prom, which gained forty-five yards to our opponent's forty yard line.

Calling time out to discuss our offensive tactics, we learned that the print shop had received a new Miehle Verticle press, and that the sheet metal shop had received a new acetylene welding outfit. During the time out, the water cart came on the field bearing a placard on each side, advising us all to see "You Can't Take It With You," presented by the Senior Class.

The clock was slowly approaching the end of the game, and our quarterback decided to gamble everything on a last minute pass. The ball was snapped back to quarterback Leo O'Hare, who faded back and threw our graduation pass-play far down the field into the end zone, where our speedy right halfback, Russell Bean was waiting for it.

Just as the ball settled into his arms, the timer's gun went off, ending the game. But we had scored the six pints to win the game, so that it didn't worry us much when we failed to kick the extra point.

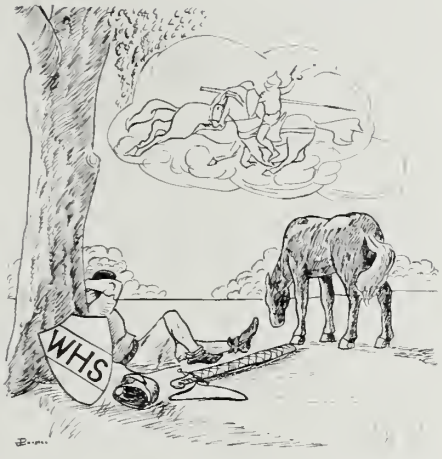
Head Linesman— George Roberts



Prophecy

One sunny afternoon in May the Weymouth football team was having spring practice at Legion Field. A foward pass! Our star player catches the ball and races down the field for a touchdown. Three yards from the line he is downed by one of his opponents. Seeing that he made no attempt to move, the coaches rush onto the field with a first-aid kit. While they are frantically working over him he sees a strange vision—the class of '39 ten years from now.

Anna is now a great singer. She got her training during study periods in room 301.

EILEEN VICINI
We hear that Eileen has been engaged by the Metropolitan Opera Company. She must have received her training in the W. H. S. glee clubs.

JUNE VICKERY
June still spends her evenings roller skating; but she owns her own rink.

MARGUERITE VILLANOVA
We hear that Margy is the new dietitian in Woolworth's 5 & 10. She eats all the hot dogs herself.

DOROTHY WADMAN
Dot has finally found the long lost fame she has been waiting for. She is in the chorus of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

BERNICE WARMBOLD
Bernie now designs dresses for the glamorous Hollywood stars.

GEORGE WARREN
George is slowly retracing the steps of Einstein in his youthful years.

DOBSON WEBSTER
Dick, as some know him, and Dobbin as others do, graduated from college at the head of his class. He is now retired from work and living on his estate in Beverly Hills. He owns the Coca Cola Company.

RUTH WHEELER
Ruth is a private secretary in a large law firm in Boston. Let's give her a clap for her success.

FRANCES WHITCOMB
Franny—after concentrated study—has published a book Football in Ten Easy Lessons.

ROBERT WILKIE
Bob is working in a hardware store. He spends most of the time wishing that the rifles there were his, or thinking about a North Weymouth resident.

ELEANORE E. WILLIAMSON
Eleanore is now a private secretary in a rain coat concern in the Sahara Desert.

WILLIAM WILLINDER
Bill has at last reached his goal—he's a cook in the National Guard.

BARBARA WING
Barb has become a great movie star in the technicolor films. (Blondes take to color.)

ROBERT WOODCOCK
The government has accepted Woody's newly completed pursuit plane which passed the test with little difficulty.

GEORGE WOOTEN
George is busy watching the Red Sox in their pennant fight and keeping the Sons of the Legion booming. Oh, yes! in his spare time he works for the government.

CHARLES WORKMAN
Charlie has just purchased a large farm. He intends to make flowers his specialty, even though he is definitely opposed to the Bees.

JOSEPHINE YORK
Joe is now chief dietitian in a large restaurant. She received her experience in the W.H.S. cafeteria.

MILDRED ZEOLIE
Mildred has received merit as an amateur author. She has had one of her stories published in a local magazine.

Vocational School Prophecy

JOHN BEAN

John is still in the chicken business. He owns one of the largest farms in the East.

LOUIS BELCASTRO

Louie worked in a foundry for awhile to get toughened up. Now he is wrestling at the new and larger Quincy Arena.

ROBERT BURNS

Burnsie has gone in for livestock in a big way. He is the head of a big piggery in South Weymouth.

WILLIS BURNS

Burns has reached the height of success. He is employed in New York as a carpenter on one of the new skyscrapers.

JOHN COLLINS

Johnny, one of our first-class printers, now works at that big printing firm, Perry Press, in Quincy.

MICHAEL COREY

Mike now owns and personally runs a taxi line between South Weymouth and W. H. S. every morning.

WILLIAM DALEY

Bill has opened a garage on Charles Street. He fixes the shoe workers' cars while they are at work.

JOSEPH DURANT

Joe after years of hard work, has finally discovered the formula for loafing.

WILLIAM GALLANT

Bill has gone into the pastry business. He has just sent in for a large order of "Cookies."

LOUIS GRANT

Louie, an ambitious worker, is now trying to sell ice boxes to the Eskimos.

GEORGE INGLIS

George, after trying for several years, has finally published a book, On the Ozarks.

CLARENCE JERMYN

Clarence is the sole owner of a large transport plane.

HAROLD KOSONEN

Harold, being a woman's man, now owns and privately operates an escort bureau. His office is located in East Weymouth.

WALTER MARSH

Walter is the leading actor of America. He gained his early experience in the Senior Play.

LEO O'HARE

Lee is now President of the United States He acquired his experience from the W. V. S.

FRANCIS PECORARO

Francis is spending his time trying to invent a device to stop him from eating his lunch before lunch time.

GEORGE ROBERTS

George is now a great sports writer. He works for the Braintree Gazette, covering Junior League baseball games.

LAWRENCE SMITH

Lawrence has taken up "spooking". He haunts a certain street in South Weymouth every night.

ZANO SPADA

Zano is in the Big League. He manages the Weymouth Braves.

PAUL STELLA

Paulie is working on an experiment. It is a magnet which he places in the pins in a bowling alley to attract the ball. This gives him the advantage at all times.

WARREN TRIBOU

Warren builds ships for Fore River Ship Yard in his spare time.

LOUIS WELLS

Louie has consolidated the G. C. Hamburg Stands. He formed a partnership with his former employer.

Reflector Staff

The staff of the Reflector has concluded its duties for the school year of 1938-1939. During this time four issues and a year book have been published. We have endeavored to have the publications reflect the best thoughts and ideas of all the pupils by choosing the highest grade materials offered from all the classes. We have worked hard to attain a high standard, but it has been an enjoyable and educational task. We hope our efforts have provided the students with an interesting and varied magazine.

Members of the staff attended meetings of the Southeastern Massachusetts League of School Publications at Plymouth, Milton, and Duxbury. At these meetings, the exchange of ideas, the lectures, and the entertainment provided were enjoyed by all. In May, the Reflector was host to the staffs of the other school papers of the league.

We, of the Reflector staff, wish to thank our faculty adviser, Mr. Presott B. Brown for his helpful counsel. We are deeply appreciative of his kindness and untiring service. We are grateful to our teachers for their assistance and to the students for their willing co-operation. A vote of thanks is also due Mr. Harry F. Duncan, printing instructor at the Vocational School, for his every-ready aid.

May we extend to the staff of next year's Reflector our best wishes for success and the hope that they will find in their work the pleasure and benefit we have found in ours.

Student Council

THE eighth successful year of the Student Council has just been completed. It was organized in 1931 under the direction of our principal, Mr. Whittle. Its purpose is to discuss school problems, to help in maintaining good order, and to give each member an opportunity for leadership.

Instead of the usual two representatives from each home room, the membership has been limited for greater efficiency to five members from each class. Those who have served as officers for the school year 1938-1939 are:

President, Louis Lysakowski
Vice President, Bruce Fox
Secretary, Ruth Wheeler

The system of rotary traffic, adopted last year, was efficiently carried out this year. In this way, teachers are relieved from their duty in the halls and orderly conduct is maintained throughout the corridors. Monitors are also stationed on the stairs and in the lunchroom.

A dance was held in December by the association, the proceeds of which will be used for athletic equipment.

One of the council's outstanding accomplishments is the annual publication of the Maroon and Gold Manual under the able direction of (Mrs.) Dora S. White. This book is given to all freshmen to acquaint them with the history, organization, and rules of the high school.

May our Student Council continue to prosper in the future, and may it continue to be a helpful influence in the betterment of our school.

The Chimes of Normandy

The annual production for 1939 offered by the Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. John Lyons, ably assisted by Misss Ernestine Canning and Miss Anita Petrucci, was the operetta entitled "The Chimes of Normandy" by Robert Planquette.

The story of the operetta centers around the mystery concerning the haunted Chateau de Corneville. There was a legend abroad that only on the return of Henri, the young Count de Corneville, in exile since childhood because of civil war, would the chimes ring. Since the day that he had saved the life of Germaine, the niece of the old miser Gaspard, he had remembered the brilliancy of her eyes as she had told him the legend of the bells. However, Gaspard, who did not recognize Henri as the young count, tried to force Germaine to marry the Magistrate of the District. In order to escape the power of old Gaspard, she went to the annual fair, then taking place in the little village and engaged herself as a servant of the Count. Meantime, Henri was determined to learn the truth regarding the apparitions in the old castle, and he found that the old miser Gaspard was responsible for them as he had concealed his treasures there. This fact drove Gaspard mad, especially when he heard the bells of the castle ring out. As the story went along, it developed that Germaine was the real heiress, the true Marchoness, whose identity was proved by a locket, an heirloom of the family of the Marquis, which she had worn since her childhood. The truth was then revealed that it was Henri who had saved her from drowning. Thus, at the end of the story, the hero Henri and the heroine Germaine are brought together and all ends happily.

Those taking part in the operetta were as follows:

HENRI	Joseph Mercurio
GERMAINE	Dorothy Wadman
SERPOLETTE	Portia Stanton
GASPARD	Walter Easttey
THE BAILLI	Alton Blanchard
GERTRUDE	Irene Gorman
MANETTE	Cynthia Cowing
SPECIALTY DANCE	Bette Dizer
SKELETON DANCE	Patricia Butler
	Marjorie Chase
	Bette Dizer
	Marjorie Dizer
	Elaine Gaskill
	Marie Kezer
	June Newcomb
	Eleanor O'Leary

The Weymouth High School Orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. James W. Calderwood, furnished the music for the performance and the additional numbers given between the acts.

Teachers and students of all departments deserve much credit for the way in which they cooperated to make this annual presentation the usual success.

Senior Play

UNDER the careful direction of Mrs. McGrath, "You Can't Take It With You," a comedy hit written by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, was presented by members of the Senior Class on June 2, 1939.

The play is set in the home of Martin Vanderhof, a retired business man. Each and every member of the family is an individualist who does as he pleases, with no questions asked. George Warren played his bit as "Grandpa" Vanderhof rather cleverly, bringing out the fact that "Grandpa" was now living idly and happily. Mrs. Penny Sycamore, an up and coming playwright, who always seemed to say the wrong word at the wrong time, was portrayed extremely well by Peggy Holmes. Gordon Holder took the part of Mr. Paul Sycamore, Penny's husband, who is quite interested in fireworks. Ingrid Monk and James McFarland, as Alice Sycamore and Tony Kirby, did a fine bit of acting in portraying the lovers. Essie Carmichael, a rather ambitious but "dumb" ballet dancer, was nicely represented by Ruth Wheeler. Ed, her husband, was played by Edward Bassett.

Cornelia Bowie and Charles Goodale both played their parts well, the latter being a zealous business man, Paul Kirby; the former being a rather too, too snobbish, Mrs. Kirby. Roger MacAleer added amusement and laughter to the play, as the Russian dance teacher, Kolenkhov. Walter Marsh and Marjorie Durgin played their parts as Donald and Rheba, the servants, comically, as was prescribed.

The rest of the cast included Elena Caracciolo as the Duchess Olga Katrina, who by some turn of fate was employed as a waitress at a restaurant, Joseph Callahan as Henderson, the income tax collector, and Edward Dwyer, William Hill, and Albert Crossman as the G-men.

Football

Belmont (Home)

Preventing Belmont from scoring in the first half only by Crehan's punting, the inexperienced Weymouth team suddenly found itself, and in the second half completely outplayed their stronger rivals. Cirigliano scored in the third period; but, after a Weymouth fumble and several long passes, Belmont finally won the game in the last three minutes. (6-7)

Whitman (Away)

Spotting Whitman 7 points in the second period, Weymouth High, with a well-drilled and now confident attack, came from behind to win on touchdowns by Cirigliano on a (30-yard spinner) and Delorey by a line (buck) (13-7)

Milton (Home)

Weymouth simply outclassed Milton. Buker scored on a pass onto the end zone from Crehan. (8-2)

No. Quincy (Home)

Weymouth's best performance. Weymouth took North's first punt on their 20-yard line, and marched to a touchdown in 12 plays, climaxed by Crehan's 30-yard pass to Buker in the end zone. In the second period Crehan scored on a diving catch of a 30-yard pass in the end-zone, thrown by Delorey.

Watertown (Away)

Watertown proved Weymouth's weakest opponent, a very poorly developed outfit. Crawford scored in the first quarter on a 70-yard run-back of an intercepted pass. Delorey scored in the last period, at the end of a long march, on a buck.

Quincy (Away)

Weymouth fought its favored opponent to a no-score draw. Both teams kicked away their few scoring threats. Quincy had a big edge on yardage but Weymouth came the closest to scoring.

Braintree (Away)

Highly favored Weymouth nearly lost this one, as they were held to a tie by a rough playing Braintree eleven. The terrific physical beating injured six Weymouth players, Crehan scored in the last minute and Delorey rushed the point. (7-7)

Plymouth (Away)

Weymouth took Plymouth's best team in years in a fine game Crehan, on a pass, and Delorey, on a buck, did Weymouth's scoring. (13-6)

Hingham (Home)

Weymouth was outplayed and outfought by a fast Hingham team on a very cold, raw field. The only score came in the second quarter on a 75-yard run-back of an intercepted pass by the fleet Allegra of Hingham. (0-6)

Baseball

The team has had a successful season so far in winning four games in six played. The first game was with Brockton, at Weymouth which we won by score of 4 to 2. Another victory followed, when we defeated North Quincy by a score of 7 to 6. Whitman was the victor on their own field winning 10 to 3. The next game brought Braintree to Weymouth, where the Maroon team won again by the score of 10 to 2. On May 15 the Weymouth boys hit three home-runs in winning over Hingham 11 to 3. The last game available for this record was a close contest with Brockton which was lost 1—0.

Orchestra

THE High School Orchestra under the direction of Mr. James W. Calderwood made its first public appearance at a meeting of the Monday Club last November. During the course of the year the orchestra has played at the high school for the Monday Club Play, the teachers' play, the Southeastern Massachusetts League of School Publications Convention, the High School Operetta, the Brainway Players, and at South Weymouth for the Old Colony Club play.

The orchestra closed a successful season by playing at the Senior Play on June 2. Although several members will graduate in June, Mr. Calderwood hopes for another pleasurable and profitable school year, when the membership will undoubtedly be increased by new members.

Band

This year, after graduation of many of the members of the band, Mr. Calderwood had to start with a very small nucleus from the former band.

The band, as usual was present at most of the football games. The last game with Hingham, which unfortunately we lost, was made a lot easier to take with the appearance of the long-waited band uniforms of the traditonal school colors, maroon and gold. At these games the band did many formations forming the letters of both the home and opposing teams. The band had some new additions to its repertoire in the form of two new songs written by Mr. John Ghiorse and arranged by Mr. Norman Loud, both of the faculty. One was the new "fight" song Weymouth High, "Fight, Maroon and Gold." The other was the "The Cross of Gray," the first Alma Mater song, it is believed, of Weymouth High and dedicated to the late principal of the school, Frederick Hilton.

At a banquet given by the Lions' Club at the Hunt School the band was a guest.

Seniors in the band will be the second group ever to receive letters for their work, preceded only by last year's class.

The band will play at the Memorial Day exercises and also at the graduation exercises. The Senior Class will sing, accompanied by the band, "Come to the Fair" by Martin.

Those leaving the band this year want to extend their thanks and gratitude to that "grand old music master of Weymouth," James W. Calderwood.

Track

THIS year Weymouth High had one of its best track seasons The team was composed mostly of juniors, but there are many promising stars of the future in the sophomore, and freshman classes. Indoor meets were held during the winter season with Dedham, Milton and Quincy high schools. Weymouth also entered the Northeastern Interscholastic, the Seaboard Relays, and the State Meet. Dedham and Milton defeated the Weymouth team but Quincy lost to Weymouth with the score of 34-32.

The outdoor season began on April 28, with Rockland High Weymouth had little trouble with this team, the score being Weymouth 48 to Rockland 27. North Quincy with a powerful team defeated Weymouth in the next meet on May 8, with a score of 48 to 28. Hingham came next to Weymouth for the third meet and was defeated with the score of 49 to 31. On May 16 Braintree defeated Weymouth with the score of $22\frac{1}{3}$ to $62\frac{2}{3}$. Weymuth also tasted defeat on May 25, from a strong Revere team, the score being 34-38. One more meet will be held with Quincy on May 31.

Coach Page took a group of boys to the New Hampshire Interscholastics on May 6, and he has also entered the team in the Brockton District Meet on June 3. Weymouth surprised local track circles by winning the South Shore Interscholastics on May 20, coming from behind to win in the last stages of the meet.

Those who were active during the season are: Art Wier, Bob Raymond, Bob Coleman, "Rich" Totman, Paul Quinlin, "Hum" Sherman, Ben Clark, "Manny" Jannell, Jim Coyle, Russ Tufts, Capt. Jim Houghton, Jim Boudreault, Lou Gibson, Bob Drake, Don Drake, Alan Sampson, "Bud" Hearn, Pete Logan, Red Campbell, and Earl Yetman. Walter Mc Quade was manager of the team.

First Row: James Nolan, Thomas Kelly, Harold Buker, Robert McArthur, Fred Slattery; Second Row: Robert Gloster, Joseph Crehan, Mr. Gannon, Vincent Cirgliano, Paul Smith, Mgr.

Basketball

On January 4 Weymouth lost their first game to Quincy. On the sixth, our team journeyed to North Quincy, where it was defeated. The next game found Plymouth visiting Weymouth, and we scored our first victory of the season. Then followed two losses to Braintree and Rockland. The team succeeded in defeating Brockton on the twentieth and Brookline on the twenty-fifth. The next game brought North Quincy to Weymouth, and we were defeated once more. On the thirty-first Weymouth travelled to Abington, and lost a close game. The next game was with Milton, and was won handily by our team. A surprise victory over Rockland followed. Our return game with Brookline was lost on February 10. The team visited Quincy on the fourteenth and met with defeat. Brockton proved too strong for our tired five. Braintree played a return game at Weymouth, and won. The final game of the season was played at Plymouth, and was won by the home team. Although the season shows eleven losses as compared to five victories, prospects for next year are bright, and the team members that do not graduate look forward to a successful season.

Wrestling

Our team this year was the usual success, winning every match except one with Quincy, including in the vanquished teams Cranston, R. I., North Quincy, Tufts Freshmen, Quincy, and others. There were eleven letter men this year and prospects look bright for next year since only two regulars are being lost by graduation. To finsh the season, our wrestlers entered the Tufts Tourney and won the State Championship in Class A.

Golf

MEMBERS of the golf team this year are: Jim Nolan, "Hud" Hill, John Flynn, Joe Lamb, Joe La Rocco, Russy Tufts, John Herlihy, Antonette, and Salemme.

The record to date shows only one victory for our boys. The team score has improved throughout the season. The sole victory was over Norwood. Among other teams played were Framingham, Needham, Brockton, North Quincy, Canton, and Walpole.

Boys' Tennis

The tennis team this year, while getting off to a poor start, has constantly improved and looks forward to its remaining matches with confidence. The first match was lost to Hingham at Weymouth by a score of 3 to 2. Another close contest resulted in a victory for Milton by the same score. Quincy proved too much for the team in defeating them 6 to 5. There remain eight matches in which the boys hope to make a better showing.

First Row: Helen Evans, Pauline Finn, Jean Macafee, Eleanor Gould; Second Row: Janet Brayshaw, Eleanor Bates, June Davison; Third Row: Myrtle Olson, Cynthia Cowing.

Girls' Tennis

The members of the team are: Cynthia Cowing, Eleanor Gould, Pauline Finn, Janet Brayshaw, June Davison, Jean Macafee, and Myrtle Olson. The girls' tennis team has played two matches this season and dropped both of them. Hingham was the victor in each case and each match was lost only after the keenest competition. They have four matches yet to play and feel confident of success in these remaining matches.

First Row: Shirley McDermott, Aurie Duplin, Gloria Garofolo, Helen Cipullo, Marjorie Fisher; Second Row Edith Durant, Patty Church, Christine Lawton.

Girls' Sports

UNDER the capable direction of the Misses Hoag and Peterson, another year of girls' sports is about to close. Again this year, as last, the girls were unable to play field hockey, because of the difficulty in procuring a field on which to practice.

Basketball has always held the chief interest of the girls, since the winning team has its picture in the Year Book issue of the Reflector. There were between fifty and sixty freshman girls who turned out for the first practice. These girls were divided into teams. The first team Miss Hoag picked out, and the remaining teams played it out for second and third places. There were about thirty-five sophomores out for first practice. The sophomores had the winning team, and as a result get the picture in the Reflector. The seniors were a close second.

The final outcome of the games played was:

Freshmen	7	3	4	·4387
Sophomores	7	6	1	·9574
Juniors	7	0	7	.0000
Seniors	7	5	2	·7146

Besides basketball, the girls play volley ball and baseball. In baseball, the girls play indoors, because the boys need the field for practice. But the girls enjoy it just as thoroughly as if it were out of doors. In these games, the juniors and seniors combine forces, as there would not be enough girls otherwise.

This year there are only three girls who will receive stars. They are Marie Christie, Dorothy Vanasse, and Evelyn MacAndrews. These girls have for four years played on all the sport teams and participated in most of the games, and shoud be congratulated, because they enjoy the sports well enough to play for four years.

Vocational Baseball

The baseball season got off to a good start when most of the student body contributed twenty-five cents towards a baseball fund. They were given passes which entitled them to go to all home games.

Mr. Joseph Whittemore, who had been coach for the past six years, was succeeded by Mr. Otto Mahn.

A fine team spirit was shown at all the games. The infield drew many favorable comments because of its snappy fielding.

The team had two capable hurlers in Parker Bates and Gus Virta. Both players alternated at third base and in the pitcher's box.

Five freshmen were regulars.

The team clicked so well during the whole season that they won six out of eight games and expect to finish by beating Somerville and Cohasset, thus making the best record for many years.

Vocational Basketball

With a large turnout of boys willing to practice at night after school, Coach James A. Booth, Jr., began in November to make his team from freshmen, sophomores, and one veteran, Walter Marsh.

We started our season by stepping out of our class in our contest with Hingham High School, although we came out on the short end. It proved, however, to be a fine game and we hope to continue our relations with Hingham.

As the season advanced, our boys began to shape up and give a good account of themselves.

We finished our season by defeating the Hockamock League Champions to the tune of 28 to 26.

We predict a good season next year, due to the fact there will be a great many veterans. Our team included:

Captain, Walter Marsh
Manager, Leonard H. Nadell
John Herlihy
Dennis Herlihy
Oliver Smith
William Baulis
Lou Gibson
Oliver Virta
Parker Bates
Lester Hutchinson
John MacDonald
William Quinlan
Edward Kelley
Wanner Ferguson

Class Will

We, the Class of 1939, Weymouth High School, country of Norfolk, being of sound body and questionable mentality, make this our last will and testament. We bequeath the following:

To the Junior Class we leave our intelligence, cleverness, and self-confidence.

To the Sophomore Class we leave our good will, in spite of the various misfortunes which we visited upon them last September.

To the Freshman Class we leave several newspapers and other instruments of torture by which they may defend themselves from unfriendly upperclassmen.

The President leaves his ready smile and his art of coming late to classes.

The First Vice-President leaves his athletic ability and his initials on a desk in Room 212.

The Second Vice-President leaves his perseverance and cheerfulness to any needly freshman.

The Treasurer leaves her sense of humor and a sign reading "Pay Your Dues" to Room 304, exclusively.

The Secretary leaves her ability in school activities and a giggle to be used only in biology classes.

The Valedictorian leaves her ingenuity and her willingness in helping less intellectual seniors to future Valedictorians.

The Salutatorian leaves her dependability and a private secretary to each member of the succeeding Reflector Staff.

To Room 212 we leave a pair of crutches for the sculptured mural with the broken leg.

To Room 215 we leave a guard for each door to help Miss Hale in confining all nomadic seniors.

To Room 216 we leave Miss Canning with her cherished hope of more ambitious seniors in the future.

To Room 217 we leave a time clock for all seniors to punch upon entering and leaving.

To Room 218 we leave Mrs. White's old map of the world, which will be found in good condition, but slightly dusty, in the book-room.

To Room 301 we leave a spokesman to voice the opinion of the class.

To Room 304 we leave a complete set of asorted riddles and jokes, so that future members of 304 may be able to compete with Mr. Hollis.
